

Applying Personal Criteria to the Scholarship Search

This lesson is designed to help students connect to their culture, family background, interests, and activities to discover that there are many scholarships available that match their unique lives and experiences.

OBJECTIVES

Students will:

1. Learn how to collect information about their culture, family background, interests, and activities
2. Connect their own culture, family background, interests, and activities to available scholarships
3. Evaluate the opportunities that exist to help them achieve a post-secondary education
4. Create a presentation that demonstrates an understanding of their own background and scholarships available

ACTIVITIES

Content Knowledge

Pre-reading for activity

Students should read the blog, How to Search for Scholarships Online, before this lesson starts. As they read, they should highlight or underline sections that are new information for them about how to find scholarships and mark any terms they need to understand better. Students should use the tips listed in the article to begin their search. When they come to class, students should be prepared to discuss the article.

In-class activity

In response to the article and using one (or more) of the recommended ways to search for scholarships, students should get into small discussion groups and answer the following questions on the Group Evaluation of Article handout:

1. What kinds of scholarships are available that you did not expect? (list at least 3)
2. What are important things to know about yourself or that you need to be able to do to apply for a scholarship? (list at least 3)
3. How might knowing your family background, culture, and your own interests and activities help you find a scholarship?

After discussions, the student groups can present what they discovered to the class.

LESSON PLAN

Applying Information

Students will use the attached Self & Family Interview for Scholarship Exploration handout to fill in information about themselves and to get information from family members. They will then use this information in MEFA Pathway's Scholarship Search.

PART 3

Evaluating Information

Students will navigate to MEFA Pathway's Scholarship Search. For each of the five areas of the Scholarship Search, students will enter the information collected in Part 2 of this lesson.

Once results have populated, students will investigate at least 3 of the scholarships listed. Students should make notes about the scholarships on the Scholarship Search Notes handout and consider what the application requires and whether they would apply for that scholarship (and explain why if not). Students will add these scholarships to their Scholarship List in MEFA Pathway, where they can view deadlines, update application status, and notate any awards received.

Critical Thinking/Creative Application

Combining the information collected in their self and family exploration, along with the results of their scholarship search, students will create a PowerPoint presentation that includes the following aspects:

- A title slide
- At least 3-4 images or pictures
- A slide that gives examples of what they discovered about their own family background, culture, or interests
- At least 3 slides that each list:
 - A scholarship that was in their search results
 - Details of that scholarship and the application requirements
 - The reasoning of why or why not the student would apply for it
- A concluding slide detailing the most significant thing learned about scholarships

Self & Family Interview for Scholarship Exploration

Fill in the following topic areas based on your own knowledge and by interviewing family members who might be able to help with the information.

1. What areas of study after high school interest you? List as many as you can think of that you might want to explore:

2. Where have you worked or volunteered? List details and time periods of your different work or volunteer jobs:

3. Where have your parents or grandparents worked or volunteered? Interview any family members for information to find out occupations or volunteer organizations that might impact your scholarship search:

4. What are the various ethnic or cultural backgrounds in your family and heritage?

5. Name all the talents and skills you have (it can be anything you think of; music, art, sports, technology, hobbies):

6. Do you or anyone in your family live with a disability or health challenge? This could be a source of scholarship help as well:

7. Have any of your parents or grandparents served in the military? If so, which branches and when?

8. What kinds of civic or community organizations do you, your parents, or your grandparents belong to? (Examples: unions, social clubs, non-profit organizations)

9. Where do you or your parents work? Many businesses and corporations have their own scholarship offerings. List any you discover:

10. Think of any unique or special things about yourself. Ask your family and friends to answer this about you too, to give you some ideas! You never know what might be applicable to a scholarship opportunity.

Scholarship Search Notes

Use this to evaluate at least 3 scholarships you find once you enter your personal information and do a scholarship search on the MEFA Pathway website.
